The rhythmic style of this composition is a calango, something like a baião.

You're like a wind that blows in front of a storm... You still put all the sil-ver clouds in my eyes. (instrumental)
 Some-where there must be a place where two heart-beats can touch, where lov-ers can meet in the day-light and find it's e-nough, So do I real-ly need the

 (instr. bkgr.) G^bMA⁹ D^bMA⁷ F C^bMA⁹ (Vocal enters 1st x)
 Show me your heart... (Vamp, solo & fade)

Additional lyric at letter A on D.S.:

I never hear about the pain in your past.
 You never talk about the places you've been.
 Each time you say that you love me
 I find you are lying again.

And still you know you rule my dreams with your charms.
 You still put all those silver clouds in my eyes,
 Make me believe you're a blessing
 When you are a curse in disguise,
 An obsession that can't be denied. (to Coda One)
